

What's new in version 5.95?

Last Modified on Feb 28, 2019

ScheduleOnce 5.95 is a minor release that introduces an advanced scheduling scenario – Conditional booking.

Conditional booking allows you to accept bookings that are conditional on the availability of one or more resources. When a booking is made, the relevant resource is automatically reserved and is no longer available to others. This allows you to maximize resource utilization and ensure that a resource is never double booked.

For example, there are five interviewers and only three interview rooms. A booking can only be created if both the interviewer and an interview room are available.

Conditional booking can be based on the availability of a single resource, or on the availability of multiple resources. Check out the Conditional booking page on our website and learn how to create a single resource scenario or a multiple resource scenario.

ScheduleOnce 5.95 also introduces one additional enhancement:

The Company field is now a System field that allows you to collect the company name from customers who schedule with you. Until today, if you wanted to add a company field to your booking form, you had to create it as a Custom field. Since this field is so common, we have made it available as a System field to enable or disable as you wish. Learn more about System fields and booking forms
